Blairmore Council Meets

The regular meeting of the Blairmore council took place on Monday night last, all the councillors, the mayor, secretary-treasurer and a host of vandeville helters being present.

After the reading and adoption of the minutes of previous meeting, a number of communications were read, which included:

The Keystone Cement Co. applying for permission to construct their railway siding across the main road at the extreme east end of the town. The application was accompanied by a blue print describing the proposed crossing to the proposed site of the new cement works, also a crossing over Eighth Avenue near the brick yards in the Pelletier addition. The council moved that such permission be granted, provided that steps be taken to safeguard the public.

A letter was received from the provincial sanitary engineer at Strathcona re the source of water supply for the town of Blairmore.

The department of the interior, per P. M. Saunders, acting commissioner of irrigation, re the town application for diversion of water from York Creek.

The McLaren Lumber Co. notified the town by phone that they would not consent to sign easement until town had made arrangements to extend water to their plant.

A blue print of the West Canadian Collieries' townsite west of the town was received from the department of the director of surveys, asking the approval of the council. On motion the council approved of the subdivision as mapped out. This included part of sections 21 and 35, township 7 and S. range 4, west of the 5th meridian.

The following accounts were passed: L. Loughheed $32.50, J. Kitson $6.00, P. Fahey $12.50, G. Fantan $34.50, C. A. Richardson $2.75, Dominion Express Co. $1.25, McLaren Lumber Co. $30.24, Blairmore School District $28.10,000.00, Monetary Times for advertising $2.40, C.P.R. $1.00, Cosmopolitan hotel $10.75, F. M. Thompson Co. 75c, Blairmore Hardware Co. $6.30.

Beebe-Sinclair—That steps be taken to secure easements.

Sinclair-Drain—That By-Law No. 21, a by-law governing the waterworks system, be read a first time.

The by-law was forthwith read a first time and was submitted to discussion. One clause called for a deposit from a new tenant as security for the payment of water rent, this deposit in the sum of $5.00 would be held in the treasury until such time as the house would be vacated by the occupant, when upon production of receipt for the deposit and the acknowledgment of the secretary-treasurer that the regular water rates had been fully paid up, said deposit would be refunded in full. Some of the councillors thought such a scheme would levy a burden upon a new tenant and may in some cases incline them to make use of the stagnant well water rather than pay the regular water rent in addition to the deposit of $5.00. Others failed to see the wisdom of the scheme in the face of the regulations governing the waterworks system requiring that water rents must be paid in advance. It was finally decided by the matter over and to submit the By-Law to the solicitor for further checking. J. F. Hanter reported to the council that the old right-of-way to his property on Stuart Street had been fenced off by the property owners, and asked that the council take steps to secure a new way of approach either by way of Tenth or Eleventh Avenues. Council would look into the matter at once.

M. B. Dawson "rushed a man," which of course occupied the attention of every member of the council and the attending ratepayers for a considerable time. This can was constructed by Mr. Dawson subject to the approval of the council for use in connection with the carrying out of the duties of the health department and the proposed introduction of a scavenger system. The health officer was present, and expressed his views, recommending either a metal receptacle similar to the exhibit or a cement receptacle so arranged as to permit easy discharge by the scavenger. Immediate steps were necessary in regard to about fifty closets which were near by and threatening to pollute the waterways. It was proposed to introduce a scavenger system, the expense of which to be met by the levy of a monthly tax on property holders or tenants of about 50 cents per month, while in addition the property holder would be obliged to provide such receptacle as would be recommended by the health department.

The matter of street grading and building of sidewalks came up for further discussion. Councillor Beebe reported the result of his mission to ascertain the probable cost of grading Victoria Street and Fifth Avenue and of laying a concrete sidewalk from a point near the Alberta hotel to Ninth Avenue. His estimate was in the neighborhood of $4800. It was suggested that a ten or twelve-foot sidewalk should be wide enough and on motion it was decided to construct a sidewalk 12 feet in width.

The chairman of the property and works committee was authorized to lay a curb plank from Fifth to Ninth Avenue.

Councillor Brisco gave notice that at next meeting he would introduce a by-law to provide for the issuing of debentures for a sum of money for the laying of sidewalks and grading of Victoria Street.

The council adjourned at 10:25 p. m.

Will Help Crows' Nest Mines

"One of the matters which received some attention from the convention when the market question was discussed was the likely effect of the new tariff on coal, and it was generally conceded that, if the tariff is adopted, Southern Alberta coal mines will very soon corral the Montana market."

J. O. Jones, acting president of District No. 18 U. M. W. of A. returned on Saturday evening from Great Falls, where he attended a convention of delegates from all the miners' unions in the Western States and Western Canada. While away he visited many Montana coal mines and it is his opinion that the new tariff will easily put the Crows' Nest field in command of the Montana market. Southern Montana will continue to get coal from the Wyoming field, but Alberta will supply the north of the state. The Montana coal is very inferior in quality to the Alberta product and their mines are none of them developed like those of Alberta.

Montana miners fear the influx of Alberta coal. Lethbridge Herald.

Not Guilty Was

Verdict Of Court

Ferne, B. C., June 9.—J. Davidson and E. Williams, promoters of the Anglo-Canadian Trust and Savings Co., who have been up for trial before Judge Thompson for the greater part of the last week on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, were found not guilty today on the counts charged against them. The evidence was all in on Saturday last but judgement was reserved until today. His Honor, however, ordered that they be held on a new count which was that of obtaining a check for $600 from Mrs. Julia Kobus of Homer with intentions to defraud. They are still "in duress vile," bail not being forthcoming. They have been ably defended by A. MacNiel of Fernie.

SYMPATHY.

The dictionary's full of words
That ring with hope and cheer
They're printed there in black and white
And serve to type their glad and true
For any sympathetic cheer
To die with him who died
And pour 'em out in love and joy
Of someone who's in sorrow,
And yet when grief has torn away
And all the words are spoken
One little dead in his arms
Heats every other token.

If you are sorry for a man
And want that man to know it
Then tell him in what way you can
And let your service show it.
The will enough to sign with him,
But let your sympathy
Be something when his hours are grim
That's really worth the price.
Stretch forth a hand that he can take
And lean on for the minute,
And, if he needs, for friendly make
Let there be something in it.

The pretty phrases you may speak,
The words that you may utter,
Are valueless until the man
Who hears for bread and butter.
This feeling sorry for a weak
And setting on in hollow Unites in every way you can
You let your kind deeds follow.
Stretch out your hand and show us him
Your sympathy is living.
And set a lot of others free.
For sympathy is giving.

Pleasant.

By American Press Association.

The grave looking young gentleman in odd looking costume is doing his best to keep still and remember what he was told. When caught by the photographer he was posing as "Lord Althorpe," as represented in the painting by Sir Joshua Reynolds. It is pretty hard work for a little boy to stand stock still for any length of time, but the photo shows that he succeeded admirably. The boy's name is Graville Temple Emmett, and he is the son of Graville Temple Emmett of New York City. While Master Emmett behaved as well as to win the plaudits of the beholders, it is quite likely that he would have much preferred not to pose at all.

How to Split Paper.

According to Popular Science News, there are two ways of splitting a piece of paper. One is to lay the sheet of paper on a piece of glass, soak it thoroughly with water, and then press it smoothly over the glass. With a little care the upper half of the sheet can be peeled off, leaving the under half on the glass. Let this dry and it will come off the glass easily. Of course the glass must be perfectly clean. The second way is a better one, but it requires some good practice. Paste a piece of cloth or strong paper on each side of the sheet to be split. When it is thoroughly dried, pull the two pieces of cloth apart suddenly and violently. The paste can then be softened with water and the two halves of the sheet easily taken off the cloth.

Orchestra—A Game.

The game of orchestra is great. Select a conductor, who seats his orchestra in a semicircle, each being assigned to play some imaginary instrument and instructed how to play it. The conductor first calls on his orchestra to tune up, and then, naming some lively air, begins to hum it, at the same time waving a baton. When all players must play in imitation of his voice and gesture, their instruments, such as harp, violin, cornet, trombone, flute, clarinet, piccolo, drum, cymbals, etc. Solo may be called for and the one representing the instrument must respond or play a forfeit. There are few games that afford more fun and laughter than this. Be sure to select a comical person to be your leader. —Philadelphia Ledger.

More Lives Than the Cat.

It is a strange but true thing that from each limb another starfish will result. The residue of the body will reproduce the lost limbs. From each severed limb will grow a new body. The brittle star, which is the most destructive of the whole brigade and will shatter itself in fragments when an attempt is made to draw it from the sea, is, however, believed not to have this curious trait. It is the sea cucumber that voluntarily undergoes disfigurement for the purpose of multiplying its kind.

Nancy's Way.

The wind was whistling round the house and shaking at the roof. The sky was dark; the snow fields lay level as a floor. "I've tired of my diary book, and I'm going to write a new one," said Nancy. "I wish the sun would melt it!" Then Nancy's eyes came running in, her cheeks like roses red. "I've found the most exact and solid. You must come out," she said. "And Billy's skating on the pond and says he'll pull the boat out. Oh that he'll come and help us build a big snow house instead!" "I've hurried into coat and hat, so Nancy need not wait." "I'm coming in a minute, but I've got to go to the garden gate. Now bright the dull day seemed to glow! Or wait it just a while." And happy were that made the change of July Nancy Joyce! —St. Nicholas.

Good Form

Your Parents.

The other day I saw the most shameful exhibition of discursive treatment that I hope to witness for some time, said a charming woman of the world, and would you believe it, it was the discourtesy of two daughters to their mother? They were products of a very good private school, where their father and mother had sent them and paid for them, too, with money earned by hard work, careful planning and many sacrifices.

These daughters were dressed in excellent taste. Their spending money in their elegant purses exceeded, I am certain, the salary of their father at their age. They knew a little boarding school French and German, and they were very well drilled in how to enter a drawing room and how to gush in the accepted society butterfly fashion. One thing in their education had been sadly neglected. They seemed not to understand that parents demand a courteous consideration at all times, and that, above all things, there should be a polite treatment before others.

Well, these girls were entertaining friends and during the evening their mother came into the library to meet them. She really had a better idea of hospitality than her daughters, for she knew that the real hosts should meet all guests, even for a few minutes. This little mother had never been in a "finishing" school, and her grammar was the plain everyday grammar without any fancy phrases or up to date slang. I believe that she made some errors in grammar, for her daughters took the trouble to correct her before the guests. The entire embarrassment of every one present except themselves. They did not seem to realize that all that correction should never be made before outsiders, and above all, they should be done kindly and gently.

"The General—Hah! So you're to be my partner today?"
"Yes, Member of Parliament Club—Pleased, I'm sure, I ask you if you carry three rackets?"
"The General—Well, you see, I'm rather shortighted and generally break one or two on my partner during the game."

Life and Death.

The treasurer of the bank was dead. Word had just been received over the telephone. It was shortly after business hours, and, as if by common consent, all of the employees gathered together in a little group.
"I feel as though I had lost a brother," said the assistant treasurer.
"I shall never get it over," added the cashier.
"It makes me sick," whispered the paying teller.
"I shall think about it all night," remarked the bookkeeper.
"It's awful—awful!" said the clerks. There was a general silence. Then the errand boy spoke:
"I wonder who'll get the job?" he chirped.

Everybody gave an involuntary start. The errand boy had been a mind reader, eh—Puck.

Successful.

Two young women were exchanging confidences. One of the young women was older than the other, and she was the heroine of many engagements. But the other was betrothed for the first time, and it was this one who was having all the trouble.
"My dear, I'm afraid we shall never be happy," she groaned. "Half the time he says he doesn't know whether I love him or not. A quarter of the time he hopes I do, a quarter of the time he just wishes I might, and all the time he just seems perfectly miserable."
"Gee!" exclaimed the experienced one solemnly, "your engagement is a grand success!" —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Not Important.

An officious neighbor, observing a bride of two weeks chopping kindling, took occasion to remonstrate with her and to offer some advice on the subjugation of husbands.
The bride, who welcomed the suggestions, "Jimmie," she said proudly and haughtily, defending her husband, "has things on his mind of more importance than his own happiness."
"Well, haven't you?" snapped the would-be agitator.
"Why, no," the bride answered modestly, blushing as she said, "I have on my mind is Jimmie's—New York Journal."

Good Reason.

"What makes you carry that horrible shriek machine for an automobile signal?"
"For humane reasons," replied Mr. Chuggins. "If I can paralyze a person with fear he will keep still and I can run to one side of him." —Washington Star.

Different.

"Hairy, here's a hair on your coat!"
"Yes, my dear, it's one of yours."
"But it's a blond hair, and my hair is black."
"I know, dear, but you must remember I haven't seen you before in a month." —Yonkers Statesman.

A MIGHTY POOR WITNESS

He Was Forced to Admit That He Was Not Always Truthful.
Among the most dramatic "Pages From an Adventurous Life," by J. E. Preston-Murdoch, is one that Lord Alverston, who is now in England, has just appeared in a postoffice prosecution at Hertford, assigns a clever Irish barrister appeared for the defendant, who was a poor letter carrier guilty of some irregularity. The chief witness against the accused was Anthony Trollope, then a Government postoffice inspector. After he had given his testimony he was handed over to the lawyer for the defence for cross-examination.

"What are you?" demanded the Irishman in a severe and commanding tone sonorous with a rich brogue.
"An official in the postoffice," answered Trollope, somewhat astonished by the lawyer's brusqueness.
"Anything else?" demanded the cross-examiner, with a snap.
"Yes, an author," This a little proudly.

"What is the name of your last book?"
"Barometer Towers."
"Now, tell me, is there a word of truth in that book?"
"Well, it is what is generally called a work of fiction."
"Fiction?" said a scornful curl of the lip. "Fiction! That is to say, there isn't a word of truth in it from beginning to the end?"
"I am afraid if you put it that way there isn't," stammered Trollope in an embarrassed way.

With a triumphant air the lawyer turned to the jury.
"Gentlemen," he exclaimed, "how can you possibly convict a man on the evidence of a witness like this, who has in this court of justice so blushing confesses that he has written a book in which there is not one word of truth?"
Trollope had fallen squarely into the pit dug for him by the unscrupulous cross-examiner, who easily won the back of the stage as a work of fiction.
When Sheridan Made a Hit.
One often has amusing experiences, writes Mark Sheridan, the actor, in the London Strand, the humor which occurred to me one number of years ago at a very small hall in the province. The stage accommodation was so limited and of such a primitive kind that some of us had to sit on the floor. One of the ladies, a dressing-room, our ablutions after the show being sometimes performed in a basin or tub. One night it was winter, and the audience was almost as chilly as the actors. The stage was a mistake, and, instead of lowering the curtain, the back sheet was pulled up, disclosing us to view.

As I had my back in that direction I did not at first realize what had happened. "This fellow," she said, "has just been making a hit!" Getting no reply, I looked up, to discover that the fellow who had just been making a hit, and with dripping mane, I was standing in full view of the audience.

I was pressed very much immediately afterward to enter for the 100 yards in the following year's district sports, as it was thought that I might establish a record.
Scot Juries and Verdicts.
In criminal cases in Scotland this jury is represented by the criminal justice system. It has always consisted of fifteen persons, and the jurors are chosen by ballot by the clerk of the court from the list containing the names of the special and common jurors, five from the special, and ten from the common. Each side has five peremptory challenges, of which no more than two may be exercised without cause. The challenges for cause are without limit. The verdict need not be unanimous. In the following year's district sports, as it was thought that I might establish a record.

What Rats Cost.

It has recently been estimated by a French statistician that $1,000,000 worth of food is wasted on rats in Great Britain alone.
In other countries the expense runs equally high, and even higher. Every rat in France costs two cents a day for his keep.
In England a rat costs from one-half cent to five cents a day to the person upon whose property it preys, and there are 40,000,000 rats in the British Isles.

Yellow Broom Was For England.
England's national flower, previous to the thirteenth century, was generally regarded as the yellow broom. It was the symbol of the War of the Roses was the rose chosen for the Lancastrians and white for the Yorkists. The victory of the roses being effected by subsequent marriage between the two rival houses.

Negroes and Music.
In his book "The Folk of West Africa," R. H. Milligan says in a chapter on African music: "There is no doubt that music is the art form of the Negro. He is the most musical person living. His entire emotional life is musical. He has not yet done any great thing. His day is still future. But I believe that when he comes he will make singing."

Rhodes Scholars.
Upon completing their Oxford course and receiving their own countries a majority of Rhodes scholars are taken up teaching. During the last year 123 scholars entered upon educational careers, eighty-four upon legal, and thirty-three went into the diplomatic or consular service. The ministry claimed twenty, medicine fifteen, and business fourteen.

LARGE ORDER.

The Fellow Who Made a Bad Guess and Was Embarrassed.
Two men sat in the public room of a local hotel. Neither of them could read or write, and each was ignorant of the other's calling.
A waiter, coming into the room, handed one of them a telegram.

He opened it at once and pretended to read, saying as he did so, "Very good—very good indeed!" loud enough for the other to hear. He then handed him the telegram, asking him if he would advise him to accept the offer. No. 2 also pretended to read and said that it was very good, but he could not think of advising him in a matter of that sort.

The first man then got a telegram from to write his acceptance of the offer he pretended he had received. Not being able to write, he pretended that he had spinned his wrist and asked No. 2 to write it for him. But he at once refused to accept the offer. They would recognize his handwriting. The waiter was then called in, and No. 1 addressed him as follows:

"Will you kindly answer this telegram for me?" handing it to him to read. "Tell them I'll take a dozen at a dollar per head."

"But, sir," said the waiter, "there must be some mistake. That is not the answer to this surely. Your telegram says, 'Come at once, twice.'"
"Great Scott!" yelled the man. "I've given you the wrong one!" And he hastily departed amid the laughter of the company.—New York Journal.

Dependency of Man.

Al Pepperdine had called upon his niece to undergo his marital woes. One of his chief grievances was that he often had to help around the house—carry water or coal or build fires. "I tell you, that's just what you ought to have!" then women folk depend on me for everything, and they don't seem to think I'm doing anything extra. I tell you, that's just what you ought to have!" then women folk depend on me for everything, and they don't seem to think I'm doing anything extra.

"Why, Uncle Al, are you going purple?" inquired Cynthia in surprise.
"You go!" he became a recluse, announced Pepperdine portentously. "I'm going!" he said to the country and live in a cave for six months, and Susan and them girls will see who's been doing the work!"
"But, Uncle Al," exclaimed Cynthia, "who will do your washing and such like?"
"Why, I'll bring that to Susan on Saturday night when I come in to get my bread." —Judge.

He Did Not Doubt.

The Rev. Herbert L. Treachman, in a sermon at a Methodist church in Duluth, was condemning this winter type of hobbler skirt. "It's worse than the follies of the past," he declared. "It's altogether indecent. I wish all husbands had the courage of a Duluth man I heard about recently." "This honest yellow wife turned completely from the mirror, and, smoothing her new hobbler skirt—a skirt of that ultra sort which must be put on with a shoe horn—said, 'I wonder if the hobbler skirt will ever go out?'"
"Not with me," the man answered firmly.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Getting Around It.

Jed—Did I tell you what happened to court the other day while I was waiting for my case to be called?
Ethel—No, I don't think so. What happened?
Jed—The judge fined a young man $10 for picking a pocket. "Your honor," said the officer in charge of the jury, "this man has only ten cents." "Well, release him," commanded the judge, "and lead him to the visitors' gallery until he gets the other dollar." —New York American.

Superfluous.

Mrs. Franklin Lane is, other than her husband, already identified with Washington life. She is fond of music, art and literature, has an artistic home and likes dancing and the lighter accomplishments of a society. The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Lane have two children, a son of sixteen and a daughter, Nancy, ten years old. Mrs. Lindley M. Garrison, wife of the new secretary of war, is a stranger in Washington, and so is her husband. She is a western girl, but was raised in Philadelphia. Her father was Captain Samuel Eldredge, U. S. A.

Mrs. Redfield, wife of the new secretary of commerce, is familiar with the duties devolving upon the wife of a cabinet member. She is a New York woman, but has spent part of her husband in Washington since her husband became a member of the cabinet. A Democratic woman said recently of Mrs. Redfield, "You cannot better describe her than that she is exactly the type of woman you would expect to be associated with the Wilson administration and has the same tendencies, same likes and dislikes as has Mrs. Wilson."

Secretary William B. Wilson of the new department of labor will have the youngest hostess for his household of any cabinet member, Miss Agnes Wilson, who will take her mother's place, as the secretary's wife is not fond of society and prefers to keep her young country on the farm in Pennsylvania. The secretary of agriculture and his wife are now in Washington, and Mrs. Houston is making her first acquaintance with official city life.

James C. McLaughlin, attorney general, is the only bachelor of the cabinet. He will probably dine at a society dinner in a single night and become at once a lion of society.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan (at top) and Mrs. Josephine Daniels.

If Mr. Wilson had allowed the women of the country to select his cabinet members for the qualifications of their wives alone there would be a big O. K. after every name.
Mrs. Bryan, the wife of the secretary of state, is a most important link in the social chain. To her will fall the delicate task of maintaining friendly relations between the wives of all foreign diplomats and other women of the cabinet and the social world at large. Mrs. Bryan is a Washington woman from the smallest details of its government machinery to the complicated maze of social intricacies. She is a woman of the highest social standing, and her position is as entertaining by a daughter and daughter-in-law.
Mrs. McCadoe, the new secretary of the treasury, is a widower, and his eldest daughter will act as hostess for her father. The McCadoe family will make a notable addition to Washington society.
Mrs. Burleson, the wife of the new postmaster general, will need no introduction to Washington society or the public in general. She has lived at the capital for a number of years as the wife of a popular member of congress from Texas. She makes graceful use of her pen in play letters and work of a light and witty nature. Her husband is a member of the navy, and she is a devoted mother of her entire time to writing, for she might take a prominent place among playwrights.
Mrs. Josephine Daniels adds another graceful southern woman to official society. She is already well known in Washington, where her mother, Mrs. North Begley, lives, as the wife of the secretary of the navy she is an assured success.

Mrs. Franklin Lane is, other than her husband, already identified with Washington life. She is fond of music, art and literature, has an artistic home and likes dancing and the lighter accomplishments of a society. A Democratic woman said recently of Mrs. Redfield, "You cannot better describe her than that she is exactly the type of woman you would expect to be associated with the Wilson administration and has the same tendencies, same likes and dislikes as has Mrs. Wilson."

Secretary William B. Wilson of the new department of labor will have the youngest hostess for his household of any cabinet member, Miss Agnes Wilson, who will take her mother's place, as the secretary's wife is not fond of society and prefers to keep her young country on the farm in Pennsylvania. The secretary of agriculture and his wife are now in Washington, and Mrs. Houston is making her first acquaintance with official city life.

James C. McLaughlin, attorney general, is the only bachelor of the cabinet. He will probably dine at a society dinner in a single night and become at once a lion of society.

Blairmore, Alta., Fri., June 13, 1913

The Enterprise has adopted a system which works satisfactorily. The oil-lamp reflectors are attached to the electric light globes to facilitate the finding of the electric globes at night-time.

The residents of Blairmore should spare no effort towards preparing for the reception of her July visitors. If weather is fine, we are sure the visitors from the prairie towns cannot help enjoying our beautiful scenery and the pleasures afforded in mountain climbing or basking in the mountain air; but we should see to it that every provision, at whatever expense of material or time, is made for their entertainment.

This is the prime time in the sporting season, the time when the would-be sport enthusiasts go around soliciting financial contributions towards the support of the baseball, football, cricket or tennis, and express their gratitude to the generous donors by forwarding their loose cash to Tim Eaton or someone else as much interested in the welfare of our town.

Some towns on the prairie have been made the sites for experimental farms. Our own towns have an abundance of loose brain soil which would surely stand some cultivation.
There is a need of education in the right manner in which to have and let live and how to expound patronage in order to induce returns.

Just try the home patronage principle and tell us after a six months' trial how much you have lost by cutting out the mail order practice.

This great haven of Southern Alberta will be a lively hive in July. On July 1st Bellevue will glory in her colors and will make use of Dominion Day to attract thousands to one of the best mining camps in the West.
On July 12 the disciples of King William will gather around Blairmore to celebrate the origin of Orangemen. It is expected that over two thousand Orangemen will assemble with their friends in the Metropolis, and every citizen of Blairmore will rise to the occasion to give them a right royal welcome.

On July 24th the Independent Order of Oddfellows, with the Cantons, Rebekahs and Patri-archs Militant will usher their thousands to the beautiful mountainsides of Blairmore. It is expected that all the chief officials of the Order in the Western Provinces will be with the great gathering on that day. The programmes will include field sports of every description, dancing at night and general demonstrations.

TALK PLENTY OF TIME TO EAT

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation, which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insa-turated. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect.
Sold by all dealers.

And it's "Irish" All The Time!

Last week a lively man, better known as "Irish," undertook to drive a geological engineer from Blairmore to the South Fork or Beaver Mines. The road was good as far as Burmis and the drive a pleasant one as far as the warm and dry effects of the Southern Alberta sun were concerned, and in fact the heat was so intense at times that even the "Irish" began to ferment and sweat.

As the waters of the Middle Fork were approached "Irish" and his companion apparently became overcome with a desire for an "annual" (bath) and very soon the majestic inland Hotilla began to hold sway on the surface of the rapid mountain stream.
The horses dashed madly through the seething foam, dragging the wagon with its contents of wares toward the shore of the opposi-side of the river, while "Irish" and Mr. Survey Man left the ship and trusted Providence to imbue them with swimming ability and how to use it. However after struggling with the threatening elements for a considerable period, during which all kinds of somersaults and submarine manoeuvres were gone through, Mr. Survey Man reached the solid earth and looked around for the Irish.
"Irish" is a friend to man at times, but never before had Mr.
Survey man such a craving for this revitalizer as on this occasion.
Mr. Irish is wearing an expression ever since, which is as fresh as a blooming rose, but his companion cannot pinch his lips close enough to conceal the fact of his unprepared-for bath.

Marathon; Caetra Desunti

A sporting event of considerable interest to many in this enlightened township came off on the north side of the river on Monday morning last.

A discussion as to their respective abilities in the running line of various townsmen took place in the morning and it was resolved that the only solution to test the merits of the claimants to the honor of championship of the company was for each to start off on even mark. Some were stout (very) and some were lean (very), so 75 yards was considered a fair distance to give all an equal chance. All agreed, and five hobos entered, but when the time, viz. 5.30, arrived, two scratched and omitted to pay forfeit.

The starters were:

1. The Sargeant, by Robin Hood and Five Roses;
2. The Photo, by Camera and Brownie;
3. The Drum, by Livingstone and Congo.

The two jibbers were Painter and Boiteiros, who watched the race from a distance and afterwards congratulated themselves upon the fact that if they had taken part they would have been numbered amongst the "also rans."

A north of England athlete marked out the distance and acted as starter. The three runners got off the mark on even terms, but Photo finding he was outpaced required after a few yards. The rest of the field went on at a terrific pace, the Drum finishing about two yards ahead of the Sargeant.

The next event in this line will be a match between the Sargeant and the Plumber. Betting is about even. The date and time will not be advertised, but anyone wishing for information will gladly be furnished by the correspondent who will always remain incog-
-Com.

The Glorious Twelfth To be Celebrated in Blairmore

The Loyal Orange Association of Southern Alberta have decided to celebrate the anniversary of the victory of King William by holding a big field day on July 12th at Blairmore. Special excursion rates have been secured from the C. P. R., and the assembly will in all likelihood be over the thousand mark.

The local lodge is getting busy for the reception and entertainment of their visiting brethren. The West Canadian Collieries have kindly granted the use of their lands on the north side of the river, which is one of the most desirable locations and beautiful spots for such a purpose in Southern Alberta. The grounds will be specially arranged and decorated, and a number of tents will be placed at different points near the hedges.

At night a grand hall will be given in the opera house, which promises to surpass anything ever attempted in the social line in Southern Alberta.

Some of the leading lights in Orangeism will be present on this occasion.

We hope to publish the programme of events in a later issue.

Married

On Friday night last the Rev. W. H. Irwin arrived at Bellevue from Calgary with a brand new bride, and as a result, there has since been a rice famine in that enterprising mining camp. Mr. Irwin was on the night of Sunday, June 1st, united in matrimony at Calgary to Miss F. Booth, of Toronto. Previous to their arrival at Bellevue, the members of his congregation made some minor preparations for a farewell party to Mr. Irwin, expecting that he was to be transferred to some other Alberta mission immediately after the conference sessions. We can imagine the sense of disappointment and surprise run in upon the party when a double header arrived on the scene as a guarantee that Bellevue had not yet been forsaken. The farewell immediately took the form of a reception, and a most enjoyable evening was spent by a host of friends.

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday evening at the home of Albert Padgett, Bellevue, when Edward Coupland became united to Miss Mary Ann Billson, Nottingham, England. Rev. W. H. Irwin officiated. The happy couple will occupy their own home in Bellevue.

Such is Life in Blairmore

In Blairmore if you go to a barber you'll have a close shave; if you go to your mother-in-law you'll get pinched; if you go to the wholesale liquor store, you'll get soaked; if you go to the milliner's you'll get trimmed; if you go to church you'll get saved; but if you don't go to church you'll get - oh, gee, it's hard to say!

Death of Peter Smith

Peter Smith, the colored cook who has been serving for some time and was last night taken care of by the town, passed away on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Peter had been suffering from dropsy and some other maladies which practically incapacitated him for work for over a year. He was a member of the colored Masonic order. Interment took place Thursday at the Blairmore cemetery.

G.T.P. Site For Moose Jaw Station

As exclusively announced some days ago by the Evening Times, the site of the Grand Trunk Pacific station has been practically settled, and the site now occupied by what is known as the Snell block is believed to be the site selected for the station, which is probably the best that the railway could have chosen in the whole city.

The Grand Trunk Pacific have been nibbling at this very desirable location for some time, and it is reported they had an option on the building and lease, which is reported to have expired at noon yesterday, but it is believed that this was renewed for forty-eight hours.

Every one connected with the deal, as usual, very reticent, owing to the fact that the negotiations have not actually been closed, but the Times is in possession of information which points to the fact that the three-million dollar terminals of the company will result in a magnificent building on Main Street, where the unfinished block now stands.

There is considerable activity in real estate and people owing lots on the right of way of the approaches to the Main building are being bothered to put a price on their property.

The railway will have to turn in from block 18 to reach Main Street at this point, and will probably be able to get this right of way cheaper than any other owing to the distance being shorter, but of course any attempt on the part of owners to unduly raise prices would mean a change of route.

A Valuable Report

The wonderful progress of forest conservation throughout the Dominion, with particular reference to British Columbia, in which Province the Association held its fourteenth annual convention last September is reflected in the annual report of the Canadian Forestry Association, which has just been issued. Mr. James Lawlor, Secretary of the Association, notes that there never was a time in the history of the country when the masses of the Association was more needed or more likely to meet with active response. In the past year the Association has added largely to its membership. Increased information, efficiency through press bulletins, lectures and conventions have also marked the Association's progress.

W. A. Boebe returned Sunday from a visit to Calgary.

The work of grading Ninth Ave nue will commence shortly.

A few showers of rain were welcomed on Sunday afternoon.

Miss J. Patterson visited her brother at Hillcrest over Sunday.

Saturday promises to be a busy day for Blairmore, it being payday.

W. A. Freeburger is up from Lethbridge on his monthly business visit.

Alexander M. Morrison, of Coleman, has been gazetted as a notary public.

Misses Darrach and Fulton spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Cowley.

The officers of the Blairmore Order of Owls will be installed on Sunday afternoon next.

Remember the dance to be held at the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium hotel on Friday night of next week.

Corporal Searl was up from Pincher Creek on Sunday looking after his "minor interests."

Miss Ryckman returned to Calgary on Monday, after spending two weeks in the Metropolis.

Rev. J. F. Hunter will occupy the pulpit at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning.

The local football team are arranging for a game to be played at Michel on the 12th of July.

Several parties climbed the Turtle on Saturday to get a bird's eye view of this great metropolis.

The hunt between Dick Marshall and Frank Peters, which is to take place at the opera house Saturday night, promises to be a real test of pugilistic ability, and will attract a large audience.

An alarm of fire was sent in from the Alberta hotel on Sunday. Response revealed only a searching chimney.

The local league footballers went down to defeat at Hosmer on Saturday in a score of 6 to 1 in Hosmer's favor.

Last week's issue of the Alberta Gazette contains a list of about 150 companies whose registrations have been cancelled.

Several cases of measles have put in appearance at Cowley, which it is feared will necessitate the closing of the school.

The Fernie league team comes to Blairmore tomorrow to play the local footballers. Get out and boost for the home team.

A number of young men left here Wednesday to join the artillery camps near Calgary, where they will serve two weeks in training.

The "marrieds" played a baseball try with the "singles" on Wednesday evening. The score was 14 to 7 in favor of the marrieds.
